MAYOR WALKER
STARTS FIGHT
FOR HIS OFFICEHearing Opened Before
New York Governor
At Albany Today

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP)—A low-voiced difference of opinion between Governor Roosevelt and John J. Curtin, chief counsel for Mayor Walker, developed soon after the hearing on ouster charges opened today. Roosevelt twice checked Curtin during his opening statement, cautioning him to confine his remarks to the evidence against Walker.

Roosevelt came into the chamber leaning on the arm of his secretary, Guernsey T. Cross. He was accompanied by his counsel, Martin Conboy and M. M. Fertig, and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit priest, who visited Mr. Roosevelt today.

The Governor explained the reason for the proceedings and pointed out the law under which he is sitting as the judge of the evidence prepared under Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee.

The Governor said the Mayor as a matter of absolute justice is entitled to an opportunity to defend himself and this right will be recognized.

"If the Mayor or his counsel in their judgment require for the defense any witness who did or did not previously testify, I shall give consideration to calling them before me if I receive the request and the reason therefor."

Curtin, chief of counsel for Walker, took issue with Roosevelt's contention that allegations to acts of the Mayor's first term were within his jurisdiction. Only a few spectators, largely state officials and employees, gained admission to the red draped "Hall of the Governors."

"Hall of Governors" on whose walls hang the portraits of Chief Executives of the state, going back 150 years, thus became today the scene of a strange reunion of two New Yorkers whose political careers as state legislators began simultaneously 21 years ago.

One, Governor Roosevelt, sat as Chief Magistrate in judgment upon the other, Mayor Walker of New York City. The charges were that Walker, by reason of alleged mayoral improprieties, had made himself unfit to serve as mayor.

Gov. Roosevelt and Mayor Walker came here as legislators in January, 1911.—The Governor as State Senator, the Mayor as Assemblyman. Today the former is candidate or the presidency of the United States — the latter is fighting against removal from office.

The circumstances that brought the two together today were not such as either would have chosen. To the Governor the hearing and its preliminaries of charges and rebuttals have meant delay in concentrating upon his campaign for the Presidency.

Some political observers said the decision may have an effect upon the Governor's campaign. They hold that a removal decision might easily be looked upon as a blow at Tammany Hall, in which the Mayor is a leading figure, and might thereby endanger the Governor's chances of carrying New York state in November.

On the other hand the suggestion was advanced in some quarters that a decision favorable to the Mayor might be interpreted as favorable to Tammany, and thus might not please some Democratic voters in the west, in which sections Tammany has often been assailed.

Here also today were Samuel A. Seabury, who as counsel for the Hofstadter legislative committee conducted the investigation of Mayor Walker's financial affairs; and representatives of two New York voters' organizations, who demand that the Mayor be removed from office.

Just one year ago, almost to the day, Seabury began to delve into the financial affairs of Walker.

Revolves On Income
The story leading up to the hearing revolves about Walker's income in the days when so many persons were making money in the stock market.

The Mayor has acknowledged that through the generosity of his friends he received large profits on investments into which he did not himself put any money.

He told the legislative committee he received $240,000 from a joint brokerage account established by Paul Block, newspaper publisher. Block testified he was inspired to start the account by the solicitude of his young son, Billy, as to how the Mayor managed to get along on his salary, then only $25,000 a year.

Seabury has charged that accepting this money and smaller gifts from other friends was improper.

Mayor In Denial
Seabury has also charged (and Walker denied) that Russell T. Sherwood, now missing, handled stock transactions totaling $950,000.

Lee Co. Farmer
Paid For a New
Auto With Silver

J. L. Glassburn, local Chevrolet dealer had an unusual experience yesterday when he received payment for a used car entirely in silver, mostly dimes. A farmer, residing about six miles from Dixon, after reaching an agreement with Mr. Glassburn as to terms of a transaction in which he was to turn in his old car, surprised the dealer by bringing forth several jars, each filled with silver coin, and counting out the balance due, about $300. The money had been saved by the farmer and his family out of change received in the past two years. And Mr. Glassburn learned for the first time that a quart fruit jar will hold about $190 in silver dimes.

ROADHOUSE MANJoliet Police Found
Her Wounded in Upper Room Today

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Esther Leow was held in the Joliet county jail today in connection with the killing of Clarence W. Crosby in the "White House," a roadhouse on the Chicago highway, last night.

Deputy Sheriffs said she and Crosby were partners in the dine-and-dance place, and that the shooting followed a quarrel between them early last evening but that it was not reported until today.

Mrs. Leow's arm was broken and her face cut and bruised. She rested on a jail cot and was booked as a prisoner but not charged formally pending further investigation.

Deputies said they learned Mrs. Leow went to the roadhouse about 9 P. M., that Crosby beat her and forced her upstairs. She told them, they said, that Crosby struck her with a revolver, dropped it, and that she picked it up and shot him in self defense.

Crosby, who was 43, was married to the former Miss Hattie Wagner, a realtor in Joliet. Mrs. Leow is about 35. The "White House" is about three miles north of here on state route 4. A delegate to the Republican National Convention in Chicago was held up there last June 18. Crosby and a woman guest surrendered valuable rings to the robbers, Frank Del Rego and Arthur Schroeder have been arrested for the holdup. The delegate's name was not given out.

Attorney William Scott Stewart of Chicago was retained by Mrs. Leow.

Four Badly Hurt
By Boiler Blast

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Four men, three of them brothers, were injured, probably fatally today in the explosion of a threshing machine steam engine on the Hite Ackerman farm near German Valley.

They are Bernard, Phillip and Richard Lams, owners of the machine, and Alvin Uden, employed by them. They were taken to a hospital in Freeport.

A horse was killed by flying metal from the explosion.

RETURN CONWAY
TO LEE COUNTY;
WIDELY SOUGHTOther Communities In State Want Alleged
Check Artist

Sheriff Fred Richardson and Deputy Ward Miller went to Moline this morning to return George Conway to Lee county on a warrant charging him with the issuance of worthless checks. Conway, who is said to have given several aliases in the past few years, is to be held here while citizens of Marengo will be brought to Dixon in an attempt to identify him as being the same individual who in the spring of last year obtained $300 through a deal in which he is said to have used the name of L. W. Cutler.

Conway was arrested Monday evening at the home of his brother-in-law Leonard Wixom, three miles north of Paw Paw, when deputies from the local sheriff's office and State Officer Frank Tyne surrounded the house. He was hiding beneath a bed upon which his wife was seated when Deputy Ward Miller discovered his hiding place, despite the stories of members of the Wixom family and his wife that he was not on the premises.

Watched In Vain
It developed yesterday that member of the state Highway Police force, had been watching the Wixom home for several days, hoping to capture Conway, and spent several hours Tuesday near the Wixom home, not knowing that the Lee county officers had arrested him Monday night. The state officer was armed with a warrant sworn out in Wheaton in June of last year. Officers from the Moline police department came to Dixon Tuesday morning at 2:30 and took the prisoner back to that city. Tuesday afternoon, it developed that Conway had passed a worthless check for ten dollars in Paw Paw and Deputy Miller immediately preferred charges and the Moline police turned Conway over to the Lee county officers today, after charges pending against him in that city had been settled.

REVOLUTION IN SPAIN ENDS IN
CHIEF'S ARRESTMonarchist Leaders Of Revolt Held For Trials Later

Madrid, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Spain's twenty-four hour monarchist rebellion was smashed by the government today with the arrest of Huelva of its fleeing leader, General Jose Sanjurjo.

The general fled from Seville shortly before 1 A. M. after his revolutionary machine, which captured the government of the important southern city yesterday, had crumbled in front of powerful concentrations of the government troops which were converging on Seville from several nearby concentration points.

Civil Governor Gualo Solsona of Huelva reported a few hours later than San Jurjo was under arrest at the Executive Palace there. He said he was taken as he was about to enter the city. Three of his chief officers were arrested with him.

Ordered To Madrid
The Governor telephoned the government here of the capture, and Minister of Interior Casariego ordered from several officers brought to Madrid immediately.

The veteran monarchist leader gave up his fight at Seville, reports said, when his efforts to rally support to the city failed. The emissaries he sent to nearby towns were reported to have been thrown into jail. The effect upon the rebels was demoralization added to by the early collapse of the revolutionary movement in Madrid.

During the night dozens of army officers who followed San Jurjo and discarded themselves in civilian clothes and began to steal out of the city.

Meanwhile, the General himself escaped in an automobile, accompanied by a few lieutenants. A chase was begun immediately and orders were issued closing the frontiers of the province to trap them.

Emmerson Guest
At Camp Grant

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Governor Louis L. Emmerson today planned to make his last inspection of the home of the Illinois National Guard's training camp.

Mrs. Emmerson and a granddaughter accompanied him on the trip. A divisional review in his honor was set for 11 A. M. Thursday.

The 108th Observation Squadron entertained visitors yesterday, dropping bombs on a hill north of the flying field.

Private Joseph Bailey, a new member of the squadron was selected to be the first man to "ball out" over camp this year. He divided head-first from a plane piloted by Major Merrill D. Mann, his commander, 2,000 feet up, and landed safely in a hay field. It was his first parachute jump.

JAS. LA PORTE,
PROMINENT PAW
PAW MAN, DEADStroke Suffered Sunday
Morning Proved
Fatal Early Today

James H. La Porte, uncle of Judge Harry Edwards and Frank Edwards of this city and a prominent resident of Lee county, passed away at his home in Paw Paw this morning at 3 o'clock, the result of a stroke suffered Sunday morning about 10 o'clock from which he never regained consciousness.

The deceased served Paw Paw as its mayor for several terms. He was born and spent his life in that community. He conducted a general store for a number of years and of late years had devoted his time to the real estate and insurance business. For many years he had represented Wyoming township as a member of the Lee County Republican Central Committee and had been very active in the affairs of the Republican party for many years.

Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his passing, one daughter, Miss Maxine of Cleveland, Ohio, a brother Frank of Ohio, and a sister, Mrs. Lucia Herrick of Paw Paw and a sister, Mrs. Lillian Nesbit of Portland, Oregon. Funeral arrangements had not been completed at noon today and will be announced later.

Dale Cummins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cummins, sustained painful bruises last evening about 8:30 when his foot became caught in a water shut off on First street near Hennipin avenue. The cover of the shut off had come off and the little fellow did not notice it until he stepped into the opening, his foot being held fast when he fell. The foot was extricated and the boy removed to his home.

FOUND NOTE IN BOTTLE

John White of 209 No. Galena ave. is enjoying a budding friendship with Art Field of 139 Elizabeth Street, Madison, Wis., which started recently when he found a note in a bottle, floating on Rock river, signed by the Madison lad, asking the finder to write to him. The Wisconsin boy put the note in the bottle, sealed it up and threw it in the Yahara river, a tributary of the Rock, about a month ago. The bottle had traveled about 150 miles when John found it. The boys have exchanged several letters since.

ROBBERY REPORTED

Police this morning were investigating a reported robbery which occurred last night about 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Lady, 707 Third street. The intruder entered a window of the bed room in which Mrs. Lady slept, took her purse containing about $7 in money, and began to dress and a few papers from the dressing table and departed through the window. Mrs. Lady was aroused by the departure of the unwelcome visitor. No other valuables in the room were molested. If the discarded purse and key are found it is asked they be returned to the owner or the police.

Indianapolis, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The attempt of the special session of the Indiana General Assembly to modify drastic provisions of the state's "bone dry" prohibition enforcement act ended in failure in the Senate yesterday.

By a vote of 26 to 22, the Senate struck out all but the enacting clause of a House bill, which would have legalized medicinal whiskey, and substituted a proposal for a referendum at the November general election on the repeal or modification of the Wright "bone dry" law.

Leaders in the fight for modification in the upper chamber, announced they would try to kill the referendum bill.

Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Republican hosts rallied around President Hoover today to heed his call to arms for the 1932 campaign.

The vexing prohibition problem and moves, past and contemplated, to meet the economic situation from the substance of the keynote address Mr. Hoover will deliver tonight in formally opening his drive for another four years in office.

Republican leaders from coast to coast are assembled here for the traditional notification ceremony to be held tonight in Constitution Hall, and each has brought a message of renewed hope to the President born of the recent upturn in commodity prices.

Waiting to hear the last word from the party chieftains, Mr. Hoover only today completed the final text of his speech of acceptance. He has consulted, apparently,

Acceptance Tonight

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—The ceremonies attending President Hoover's notification of renomination will begin tonight at 8:30 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time (7:30 Dixon time) with a band concert. At 9 o'clock (8 o'clock Dixon time) the President will arrive at Constitution Hall.

The program from that point:

1. Meeting called to order by Everett Sanders, Chairman, Republican National Committee.
2. Invocation by Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington.
3. Address by Everett Sanders, introducing Bertrand H. Snell, Chairman of Notification Committee.
4. Formal address of notification by Representative Snell.
5. Address accepting the nomination by Herbert Hoover.
6. Benediction by Dr. Coleman J. Nevils, President Georgetown University.
7. "Star Spangled Banner" by Marine Band.

ly, over the wording of the prohibition declaration and some phases of a legislative program he has in mind for the short session of Congress beginning in December.

A buffet luncheon on the south lawn of the White House to the Republican guests and presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Hoover was the start of the day's program. Tonight at about 9:15 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, the President will begin his address expected to reach a record audience. It will be broadcast by two nation-wide chains, and Republican meetings have been called throughout the nation to listen.

Obviously, the Republicans are eagerly awaiting the campaign chords to be strummed by the President. Tonight's theme will be the basis of the party contest. Not until Mid-September, at best, is Mr. Hoover expected to make another address. Only three are now in mind—one in the east, one in the middle west and a third in the north at a place still to be determined.

So, Mr. Hoover picked up his pen this morning to write the final words with full realization that his message would be the foundation upon which he stands for re-election in November.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—(AP)—James Simpson, Jr., contesting the Republican nomination for Congress from the 11th Tenth District, gained 113 votes over his opponent, State Representative Ralph Church, because 221 ballots in an Evanston precinct had been initiated by an election clerk instead of a judge.

Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch, who is presiding at the contest, yesterday held the 321 ballots so initiated invalid. The ruling cost Simpson 158 votes and Simpson, 45, making a net gain of 113 for Simpson. It also placed Simpson 25 votes ahead of Church.

Following Judge Lynch's ruling an attack on the validity of 215 ballots which have been initiated on the face instead of on the back as specified by statute. These ballots had been cast partly in Evanston and the remainder in Wilmette.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 11.—(AP)—John Caplin and Mike Galassi of Springfield were seized in suburban Deveraux heights today for investigation in the kidnaping of John B. Colegrove, Taylorville banker, and were taken at once to the Christian county jail at Taylorville.

The arrests were made in quick succession by Chief T. P. Sullivan of the State Bureau of Identification and local police working with deputy sheriffs of Sangamon and Christian counties. Officials at Taylorville planned to question them at once.

The authorities here acted on information supplied them by residents of the suburb that Caplin and Galassi were seen last Friday, when the former banker was slugged and kidnaped, in company of James Gammatoni and Amelio Puzziotti, both held at Taylorville under formal charges of kidnaping Colegrove for ransom.

Has Police Record
Galassi is the owner of the house in which Gammatoni and Puzziotti roomed and in which they were arrested a few hours after the kidnaping. Police said Caplin, 18 years old, has a police record. Last year he was arrested as a suspect in an attempted street car holdup.

Gammatoni and Puzziotti, unemployed Springfield miners, have steadfastly denied, as the state charges, that they slugged Colegrove in his home, carried him away in an automobile and threatened his life unless he paid $30,000 ransom.

Gammatoni lost about $5,000 in the failure of Colegrove's bank three years ago. He was placed under a $100,000 peace bond two years ago for firing at the banker. Colegrove has been convicted for receiving deposits while knowing his bank to be insolvent and is under sentence of one to three years.

When Fire Razed Famous Monastery

While priests, nuns and students struggled side by side with firemen to save sacred relics and art objects, this fire almost completely destroyed the monastery of historical Villanova College, at Villanova, Pa. Fifty-three persons were injured, and damage was estimated at nearly $1,000,000. Here you see firemen working from the roof of an adjoining building as the blaze was at its height.

A Modern Klondike

It was just like the gold rush days in the Klondike. Workmen at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., unearthed a cache of hidden coins while digging a foundation. Between $1000 and $3000 was unearthed before state troopers stopped the digging until ownership could be determined. Some of the coins dated to the 18th century. "Miners" are shown here "panning" the "pay dirt."

Enemies Of Co-ops
Fight Farm Board

Chicago, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Farm Board was described by Senator L. J. Dickinson (R. Ia.) as the first "real effort to put cooperatives on a national basis" in a radio address in which he flayed "self-appointed spokesmen for the farmers" who seek repeal of the Marketing Act.

The Senator, speaking last night, said agriculture would suffer a setback from which it would not recover in 25 years if the marketing act were repealed and the Farm Board abolished.

"Naturally those opposed to cooperative marketing are also opposed to the farmer having any agency through which he can operate for himself," the Senator said.

TOWANDA BANK HELD UP. Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Two robbers took $2,000 from the Towanda State Bank, near here, at noon today, and escaped toward the south in a tan coupe with yellow wheels.

Entering as if on business, they forced Dr. S. F. Boulton, the cashier, and Miss Mary Roseman, his assistant, to lie on the floor, tore the telephone from the wall, took the money and left.

NEW MAIL 'CHUTE. Washington—A new parachute for dropping mail from speeding airplanes has been perfected by Charles M. Graeg. It includes an illuminating lamp and hook for attaching mail bags. So They Wheeled Him Away

Even in Olympic warfare on the cinder track, there is occasional need for the ambulance squad, as this photo shows. Lambrow of Greece, a sprinter, collapsed at the finish of a race and was borne away, gasping for breath but resting comfortably on a stretcher, to the first aid station.

They Retraced Washington's Travels

In a single day they followed by airplane the route of all the travels that George Washington was able to crowd into a lifetime. Guest of honor on the 2600-mile flight, undertaken as a feature of the Washington bicentennial celebration, was Miss Anne Madison Washington, center, a great-great-granddaughter of the first president. Left to right above, after the trip ended at Newark, N. J., airport, are: Lieut. Richard Alworth, Mrs. James Doolittle, Miss Washington, Major Jimmy Doolittle, pilot, and A. F. Maple, a passenger on the flight, representing the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

000 for Walker. The accusation that the Mayor and travelling companions accepted a $10,000 letter of credit from a bus company which obtained a franchise also was among those stressed by Seabury. Walker said this money was actually put up by himself and friends.

Legal efforts last night and early today to prevent Governor Roosevelt from acting on the charges by securing a legal writ of prohibition, did not succeed. Associate Justice Harold J. Hinman of the Appellate Division and Supreme Justice Walter Bliss refused to grant a writ of prohibition sought by Sidney Levine, attorney acting for the Secretary of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce.

Stock in Beneficiary. Almost at the end of the testimony before the Hostadter committee testimony was given which Seabury asserted showed that Walker was unfit to retain his office.

It was shown that Walker had owned $10,000 worth of bonds of the Reliance Bronze & Steel Corporation, which was awarded a contract for Fifth Avenue traffic light standards.

The city charter forbids the Mayor from having any financial interest in companies seeking city contracts.

Mayor Walker denied that he knew the nature of the Reliance Company's business.

NORTHERN LIGHTS
When snow lies white on mountain heights
And winter stalks by hill and glen,
The merry dancers of the night
Are at their joyous jigs again.

In silver radiance is spread,
With sound of waters on the shore
And star-shine winking overhead.

In green and blue of rainbow hue,
And red and yellow, clear as flame,
Their footsteps fall as list as dew,
These merry sprites without a name.

And to and fro they whirling go,
And tread their measures, gay and free,
But whence they come shall no man know
And whence they vanish no man see.

Women Voters To Maintain Efforts To Relieve Needy

A warning that the League of Women Voters must not relax its efforts in the unemployment crisis now that federal funds for relief of the unemployed have been granted to Illinois was issued today by Mrs. Alfred D. Kohn, chairman of the League state department of public welfare.

"The action of Congress in making federal funds available to the state represents a first step in reconstruction," said Mrs. Kohn. League members throughout the state must now concentrate their efforts upon the further steps that are needed to hasten recovery."

The need for a network of federal employment exchanges would bring men and jobs together was stressed by Mrs. Kohn. "Hordes of unemployed are today beating their way about the country looking for work," she declared. "This involves great physical suffering and social waste. Common sense dictates that a network of employment exchanges would put the unemployed workers in a position to get information in his own community regarding openings in every part of the country. We must continue to urge Congress to establish this needed service."

Mrs. Kohn stated that the League of Women's Voters, though gratified by the passage of federal relief bill, are agreed that it contains imperfections. "The most serious defect of the bill is its failure to provide skilled supervision in the expenditure of the funds. At present the money is loaned to the states without provision for insuring wise and competent expenditure. Ultimately so loose an arrangement may lead to public scandals. Congress should promptly provide that these loans to the states be made under the direction of skilled central supervision."

"There is a widespread misapprehension with respect to the relationship of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the disbursement of the relief funds. It has no power to set standards for the states that borrow the relief funds. The intelligent disbursement of relief funds demands special training and experience. Congress should promptly see that broader powers of supervision are granted and that these powers are reposed in the hands of persons with specific experience in relief work."

Posture Is Important To All Child Health
Do you remember as I do the great number of children who used to go around with shoulder braces?

When a child was "round shouldered," a general name given to stooping, he was whisked off to a doctor who usually advised a support. What good these supports were I do not know. I was constantly threatened with one because I would not, could not, stand straight. But to my great relief, it never materialized. I was in constant terror of having to go about in a sling.

When I look about at the children of today, I am perpetually amazed at their straight backs, heads set beautifully on arrow-like bodies, chins up and hips in. Not all children, of course, but enough to show that the posture of the race is improving.

Less Illness Today
It may be attributed to several reasons. There is less serious illness for one thing. I attribute my own weakness at least partially to an almost mortal case of typhoid fever when I was 6. There is little typhoid now. And as for diphtheria and scarlet fever, they so little match the epidemics of former years that they are scarcely recognizable as the same disease.

Another reason for the better posture of children is better bone formation resulting from sunbaths and cod-liver oil in babyhood. There exists little of the rickets that nearly all children used to have.

I have before me as I write a diagram of right and wrong posture. In the wrong one the head is forward, the neck line aslant, the spine deeply curved in at the waistline. The stomach protrudes, the legs are slightly flexed. Every bone in the frame is out of place. In the correct position the head is straight up, the neckline vertical, the back curve normal, the stomach and chest on a line, the legs straight and the knees back where they belong. The hips are drawn in and that throws the vertebrae of the spine and the pelvic bones where they belong.

Such a position of the bones gives every organ its chance to function without squeezing. This is the most important part of all. A healthy child with good bones will stand that way naturally. If he is out of shape it is a result of illness, wrong feeding, or rickets. Reminding a child will do some good, but it is not enough. He needs something more, a general toning up, fresh air and sun, plenty of sleep, sufficient nourishing food, and happiness. Nervous children are a result of poor physical condition and poor posture.

We can almost tell at a glance whether our children are structurally perfect.

Palmyra Bureau Met Tuesday Eve
The Palmyra Farm and Home Bureau Club met at Sugar Grove church on Tuesday evening, with 130 in attendance. After a short business meeting was disposed of, the 4-H Club girls gave an interesting program. Their leader, Miss Anza Lawton told what 4-H stood for, and the numerous projects which could be taken up. Her club has had sewing as their project the past year, and the dresses on exhibit, which were made by the girls, showed evidence of "1st class ability on their part."

The president of the club, Miss Irene Mensch, announced the program as follows: reading, Miss Catherine Sheaffer; piano solo, Miss Frances Buhler; description of the picture, "Song of The Meadow Lark," Avis Beede; piano solo, Marjorie Schott; readings, Lucy Lawton; Stephen Posters Life's Mary Rosbrook; piano solo, Irene Mensch.

A demonstration of cleaning clothes of different materials was presented by Misses Evelyn and Catherine Scholl, which completed this part of the program. The second part of the program consisted of: instrumental solos, Mrs. L. DeRoy Buhler, and a reading by Mrs. Carl Straw.

Mr. Hayes and Miss Simon, domestic science expert, who is conducting the canning activities of the Paul Rader pantry at Assembly Park, gave short talks followed by Mr. Vale.

A luncheon of pie a la mode was then served by a committee and a social hour enjoyed, after which all departed to meet again in September.

Screen's "Great Lover" Took His 4th. Wife Hastily
Hollywood, Aug. 11 —(AP)—The film cameras were still grinding on the studio lot at 5:45 P. M. yesterday. Before one of them stood Virginia Bruce, an actress, portraying the part of a crippled trader's daughter in a picture of African life. She was in rags and her face was stained.

John Gilbert walked onto the set and interrupted the scene. "We're going to be married at 6 o'clock," he calmly announced. "Oh, John," Miss Bruce began. "Six o'clock?" Gilbert cut in. "But there's so much to be done and—"

"Six o'clock. My bungalow. Be there."

In this manner did Gilbert, the screen's "great lover," set the stage for his wedding last night to Miss Bruce. And Miss Bruce was there in 15 minutes, all washed and dressed in bridal apparel, establishing some sort of a record for speed, if what the press agents said was true.

The wedding ceremony was performed shortly after 6 o'clock. The bride was given away by her father, Earl Frederick Briggs. Irving Thalberg, producer, was best man. Mrs. Donald Ogden Stewart, wife of the writer was matron of honor.

The marriage was Gilbert's fourth, his divorce from his third wife, Ina Claire, actress, having become final last Saturday.

Mrs. Caraway Has Overwhelming Lead
Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 11—(AP)—Arkansas, the only state ever to elect a woman Senator, has voted overwhelmingly to let her do some more law making.

Returns from 1,756 of 2,100 precincts placed Senator Hattie W. Caraway far in the lead of her six male opponents for the Democratic nomination, considered as equivalent to election in this state.

She led her nearest opponent, Major O. L. Bohlenhamer of El Dorado, former National American Legion Commander, 101,835 to 49,451.

LOWELL PARK BEACH.

The ordinance passed by the city council prohibiting patrons of Lowell Park beach from disrobing in the park is proper enough, but the Telegraph believes further regulations concerning the beach could be beneficial.

At present all persons using the beach are supposed to pay the bath house admission whether they use the bathhouse or not. This seems fair because the concessionaire at the bath house is standing the expense of life guards and floats, diving stands and other swimming equipment. Many people, however, take the attitude that if they change their clothing at home and come to the beach in their bathing suits, and do not use that bath house they will not pay. The concessionaire should not be expected to provide guards and equipment for these non-paying patrons at his own expense and still it must be recognized that at most public beaches people are allowed to come in their bathing suits and swim with no expense attached.

The obvious way out is for the park board to pay the salary of the life guards and the expense of maintaining the swimming equipment and allow anyone coming from home in a bathing suit to use the beach free.

The great numbers of people who come from out-of-town would still use the bath house and pay the small fee for their fun. Those benefited would be the people of Dixon, whose tax money supports the park and makes the beach possible.

Such a change in rules could not go into effect until next year in all probability, because of the park board's contract with the management of the bath house.

A BROTHER'S HEROIC EXAMPLE.

Recent months have not been a good time for people who like to keep a strong faith in human nature. There has been a good deal of news of stupidity, venality and perversity in high places—almost enough to convince one that the race is a pretty shabby affair.

But now and then there will be a little story about some utterly unknown, perfectly ordinary individual that will turn the tide; a story that helps to restore one's belief that mankind is, after all, capable of very great and noble things.

Such a story got into the papers the other day from Canon City, Colo.

Tom and George Embleton, brothers, were digging a well, assisted by their father. They got the well shaft 60 feet deep, and then George was lowered to the bottom in a bucket to set off a dynamite blast. He lit the fuse and ordered them to hoist him out. They began to do so—and the rope broke. George fell to the bottom, knocked unconscious, and lay right on top of a charge of dynamite that was certain to explode very shortly.

The two men at the top would have been amply justified in staying there, waiting in frozen horror for the tragedy. But Tom, without hesitation, got into the bucket and ordered his father to lower him into the well where a high explosive was due to go off in a few seconds.

Unfortunately, he was unable to save his brother. The dynamite went off when Tom was only half way down the shaft. He went on to the bottom, picked up his brother's broken body and brought it to the surface, but it was too late. George was fatally injured.

But you will go a long way before you find a finer example of real bravery than Tom displayed.

Physical courage, of course, is common enough. Millions of soldiers displayed it in profusion during the World War. But there is always something immensely heartening about it. To see a man who is ready to act on the belief that there is something immensely more important than saving his own skin restores one's faith in the entire race.

MUSSOLINI'S PLEA FOR BABIES.

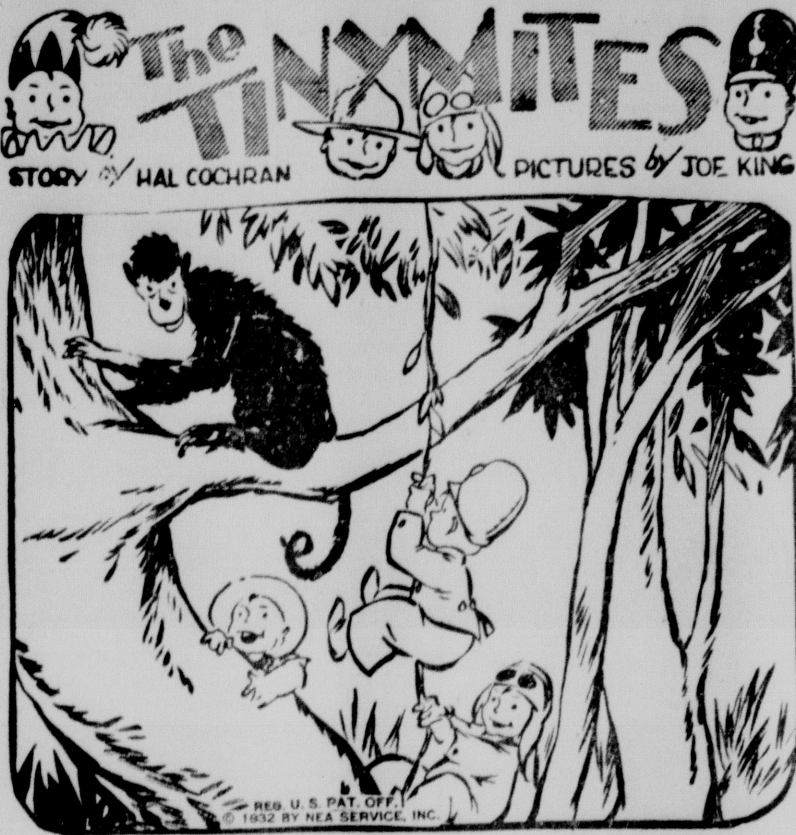

The minds of great men sometimes move in channels which are incomprehensible to lesser mortals.

Mussolini recently ordered bargain excursion rates on trips to Rome for all honeymooners. Couples who can show that they are newly married can get an 80 per cent reduction in the price of their tickets; and all of this, it is explained, is due in the hope that it will encourage more Italians to marry, for Il Duce believes that Italy needs more babies and yet more babies, in a steadily increasing flood.

Why should Italy's dictator have that notion, anyway? For years the great trouble with Italy has been overcrowding. The peninsula cannot find room for all of its inhabitants now; it has not been able to do so for decades; a further increase in population would strain things unbearably.

Why should Mussolini or anyone else feel that Italy's great need is for a still higher birth rate?

It (Fascism) rejects pacifism, which implies renunciation of struggle and cravenness in the face of sacrifice. Only war carries all human energies to the height of tension and gives the seal of nobility to peoples that have the courage to confront it.—Benito Mussolini, Italian dictator.

The Tinymites were fairly strong and so it didn't take them long to move the heavy boulder from the little monkey's tail.

It was when we Scouty cried, "Heave ho," that they all pushed and made it go. Although the monkey was thankful, it began to sulk and wall.

"It's little tail is hurt," kind Copy cried. "I'm going to hold it by my side and see if I can ease the pain." Then at the monkey he smiled.

"Crawl right into my lap," he said. "I'll very gently hold your head. You needn't be afraid of me. I know that you are not very wild."

The monkey crawled along the ground and soon a very soft spot was found. It seemed pleased to nestle close, and we Copy liked it, too.

He rubbed the monkey's tail with ease, kindly act that seemed to please. "It is funny," said another, "what real kindness oft will do."

"Sing it to sleep," said Windy. "I also will let my voice ring high." "There is no use," said Copy, "he is sleeping sound right now."

"Wed best start out, at any cost, and look for Duncy, who's still lost. Perhaps we'll have to climb some trees. The monkey will show us how."

So, in about an hour or so one of the Tinies shouted "Oh wake up, you lazy fellow. We are going to seek your aid."

"A friend of ours is lost near-by. He may be in the trees, up high. You lead the way. We'll follow. We are not one bit afraid."

The fellow eyed the Tiny crowd and started chattering real loud. Then it sprang up a tree trunk. Scouty shouted, "Here we go!" Big vines were hanging near the trees and so the bunch crawled up with ease. "Where will this take us?" Windy cried. "That is what I'd like to know."

(The Tinies get a real surprise in the next story.)

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OUR CODE OF MORALS

By WILLIAM E. GILROY

The moral and social quality of the Ten Commandments cannot be adequately appreciated until one considers them in perspective both in relation to the world surrounding the small nation to which they were given and in relation to the modern world.

Take such a Commandment as the fifth—Honor thy father and mother that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

Men and women who have been brought up in the atmosphere of that Commandment, who have had and still have a proper feeling of love and reverence for their parents, are hardly in a position to realize its significance. Outside the area of Jewish and Christian ethics there has been little emphasis upon loving and honoring parents. The practice of killing the old folks when they became burdensome, or of submitting them to exposure which hastened their death, has not all been confined to savage and primitive peoples.

That profound family ethics, which was engendered in the Jewish race, which continues in that race today, and which coming from that quarter has been so emphasized in Christianity, is one of the brightest and noblest things in the history of mankind. It marks the heritage of Jewish and Christian principles and teaching as immeasurably higher than anything in the surrounding world.

One might comment similarly upon the sixth commandment with its emphasis upon the sacredness of human life. Unfortunately here the modern world lags far behind the commandments. There is in our modern world in many quarters a cynical disregard for human life. It is evident not only in the gangster's philosophy, but in the recklessness of automobile driving which ruthlessly, and needlessly, destroys many victims, in the relative disregard of life in industry and in the murderous practice of war which nations, despite the Kellogg pact, have not abrogated in practice. The modern world along this line has a long way to go before it will catch up with Moses.

We are living in an age when many attacks are made upon the sexual morality of Jewish and Christian codes. But in the light of the highest ideals of love and happy home relationships can any intelligent or fair-minded person question the validity of the seventh commandment?

Are not the front pages of our daily papers, with their continuous records of unhappy home life and divorce, the surest evidences that men and women do not improve their condition or their happiness when they depart from the loyalty and integrity of life's deepest relationship.

The commandment against stealing is not quite so simple as it was for the primitive community to which Moses gave it. Then a man's possessions were rather clearly defined. He knew what was his, he knew what was another's, and they both knew rather clearly what belonged to all.

In our modern complex world the worst thief is, not infrequently, the man who has stolen from his fellow man by corrupt manipulation of the law and the forces of government to serve his own end. Yet stealing either on a small or a large scale is always and everywhere anti-social. We need not to weaken the commandment, but to strengthen it, and to give it new directions.

All the commandments issue in the matter of right relationships of men with one another, and they find their fulfillment accordingly in the law of Christ, the law of love—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only get the bowels and a mere movement down the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Forgotten Heroes

By Elmo Scott Watson

300 Captives, an Empty Gun

SERGEANT ALVIN G. YORK captured 132 Germans and won for himself the title of "outstanding war hero," but Sergeant Harry J. Adams of Rochester, N. Y., a member of Company K, Three Hundred and Fifty-third Infantry of the Eighty-ninth division single-handed made prisoners of more than three hundred Teutons. It won for him the Distinguished Service cross which he was awarded in 1919.

Then for twelve years his feat was forgotten. When General Pershing's memoirs were published in 1931 he told of the capture by Private Leland, a marine, of 75 Germans. "Not bad for the marines," said army officers, "but let's remember Sergeant Adams." So even though they could not see what became of him, whether he was dead or still alive, still in the army or a civilian, through the newspapers they reminded his fellow Americans of this story.

On September 12, 1918, the Three Hundred and Fifty-third Infantry took part in the attack on the town of Bouillonville. They captured the town and 80 Germans surrendered to Adams and his lieutenant. Then the lieutenant told Adams to see if there were any more Germans in the town. The sergeant saw one of the Heinies run into a house and he followed. He entered just in time to see the German go through a trapdoor in the wall. At that time he had only two shots left in his automatic pistol. Firing both those shots through the door he shouted "Come out of there."

And did they come out! The man he had followed was the first through the door and he was followed by one lieutenant colonel, 18 staff officers and 355 soldiers. A few minutes later Capt. Elmer R. Axon called out to Lieut. Van Dyne Howbert of the Three Hundred and Fifty-third that "here comes one man with about half of the German army." Then says Howbert, "Adams was walking along in front and entirely unconcerned; he had picked up a rifle since exhausting his pistol ammunition and was strolling along with his right arm hooked over the small of the stock and the bayonet nearly dragging in the ground behind him. He had not even bothered to disarm the Germans. We asked him where he got this gang, and he gave us more or less the same story as is covered in the citation and was quite unconcerned about the exploit."

Illinois To Seek

Second Govt. Loan

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 10.—(AP)

—State officials announced today they were preparing data on unemployment relief being given and estimates of future need for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation preparatory to asking further loans to care for distressed Illinoisans until the first of the year.

Information is being gathered to show the federal corporation that the state has exhausted all forms of public and private relief and continuance of aid to the unemployed depends on governmental aid.

The R. F. C. made an emergency advance to Gov. Lou L. Emmerson of $3,000,000 but it will be used up before the end of the month. Representatives of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission probably will go to Washington in about a week to request further aid.

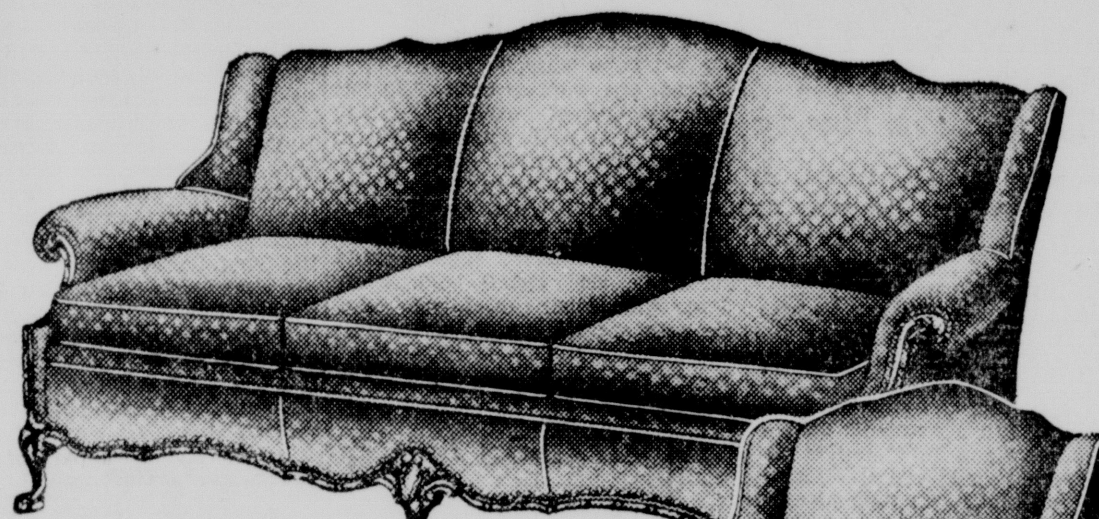

A new application, complying with the form prescribed by the corporation, will be signed by the Governor. With about $3,500,000 being used up each month for relief, the next request may be for more than $15,000,000.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—John Q. Tilson, one-time Republican leader of that body for some 22 years, couldn't resist the opportunity, before he announced his resignation as a Representative from Connecticut, to take a shot at the Democrats and the way they have tampered with the rules this past session.

To the colonel those rules are something set apart, something sacred. He is fond of telling his colleagues that he is quite sure if the men who framed them a half century ago are able to look down from their world today, they must feel pleased—the rules are substantially as they left them.

When the Democrats gained control of the House last December they immediately set about to war on what they chose to call "bossism" as practiced in the House by both parties when in control.

Their major step was the institution of the discharge rule—that vehicle, which with the signature of 154 members, compels a vote on a bill regardless of how a committee looks at it.

HE WOULD ABOLISH RULE—

Before, such action required a majority of the House to sign—218. It was here, contended the Democrats, where lay the power of "bossism run mad," exercised by that famed Republican triumvirate of "Longworth, Tilson and Snell."

Three times in the last session the Democrats invoked their discharge rule, each time Tilson says "to no good purpose whatever." Now he begs that it be abolished. Of course the purpose of the discharging rule, as the Democrats see it, is to keep themselves from being "hog-tied." The theory is that new members come to Congress full of enthusiasm and a conscientious desire to serve their constituents to find when they get here the rules tie them in a knot, helpless.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT—

But there's the other side, as all observers and a number of members themselves know quite well. Not all congressmen are anxious to let the public know their views on every piece of pending legislation.

Take it from Snell of New York, at present Republican leader of the House and guardian of the rules and committee when "bossism ran mad."

"It is difficult for a man constituted as I am to take the pounding I have received on the floor when I knew the member was demagoguing, because time and again such members have come to me and said:

"Do not pay any attention. I did not mean it. I was forced into this for political reasons, but for God's sake you stand up and do what is right."

DAILY HEALTH

DIABETES FACTS—I

The term diabetes is derived from the Greek, in which language it means a siphon.

The name diabetes was applied to the disease which it describes, because an increase in the secretion of urine is characteristic.

One of the two conditions to which the term diabetes refers is called diabetes insipidus and the other diabetes mellitus. Insipidus means tasteless and mellitus means honey-like or sweet.

When the term diabetes alone is used, it is usually meant to indicate the mellitus variety, so named because of the presence of sugar in the urine.

Diabetes is widely prevalent. It has been estimated that there are more than a million persons suffering from diabetes in the United States. This disease appears to be peculiarly prevalent among the Jews.

Geographically, diabetes appears to be more prevalent in New England and in the districts around New York, in California, in Oregon and the midwest, including Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Missouri.

The disease is most common in persons between the ages of 30 and 40. It appears in the next order of frequency in those between 20 and 30. It is less common in the age groups over 50 and even more rare in children under 10.

Diabetes in the younger age groups, however, is usually more severe. There appears to be higher prevalence among males than among females.

Many studies lead to the conclusion that there is an hereditary factor in diabetes.

Thus, it is not rare to find that the parents or grandparents of the individual with diabetes also suffered from the disease.

But Osler is credited with the statement that there is no known instance of a diabetic mother bearing a diabetic child.

A BOOK A DAY

It is always exciting to read a book which turns out to be ever so much better than you had any reason to expect; and just that kind of excitement filled me after I had finished "The Conjure-Man Dies" by Rudolph Fisher.

Here is a book which seems to me to be, by a healthy margin, the best detective story of the year. In fact, it is so good that it ought to appeal to readers who never ordinarily read mystery thrillers. It is an unusual sort of yarn. In the first place, the scene is New York's Harlem, and every character in the book is colored—the people who get killed, the murderer, the witnesses, the detective, the police, everybody.

Secondly, it has a weird, hair-raising mystery. The conjure-man who gets murdered is a native of Africa, and a Harvard graduate. Slain while conducting a seance, he comes to life a bit later, confounds the investigators and injects an eerie, supernatural note into the proceedings.

Thirdly, the book is full of first-rate low comedy which is certain to jar a lot of coarse laughter out of you. The picture of Harlem life is excellent, the characters are splendidly drawn and the solution of the murder is as legitimate as it is expected.

You may gather from all of this that I think "The Conjure-Man Dies" is a swell book. I do....

UNCLE SAM'S NEW TAXES

WHERE THEY HIT YOU—AND HOW!

By ROBERT TALLEY
(NEA Service Writer)

Chew a stick of gum, eat a bar of your favorite candy, partake of a cooling soft drink, or strike a match to light your cigarette—

Every time you do any of these things you are helping Uncle Sam raise money, by means of his new 1932 tax bill, to "balance" the federal budget.

However, these particular taxes are mostly painless to the consumer. They are small and in most cases the dealers are absorbing them and shouldering their cost.

The 2 per cent tax on chewing gum, treasury experts estimate, will yield $1,000,000 a year. This tax is only one-tenth of a cent on a 5-cent package. Overlooking nothing, Uncle Sam collects from the manufacturers of cathartic chewing gums, as well as those who make the usual kind.

On the average, every person in the United States chews more than 100 sticks of chewing gum a year, and the same has a retail value of $114,000,000 say trade authorities.

The 2 per cent tax on candy is estimated to yield $4,000,000. It applies to candy of every description, including candy cough drops.

The various taxes on soft drinks are expected to yield over $7,000,000. There is a tax of 1-4 cents per gallon on unfermented grape juice, 2 cents a gallon on fruit juices, and imitations, 2 cents a gallon on carbonated beverages, 2 cents a gallon on still drinks (meaning those not charged or carbonated), 2 cents a gallon on mineral waters, costing over 12-12 cents a gallon, 4 cents a pound on carbonic acid gas use by soda fountains, 6 cents a gallon on fountain syrups and 5 cents a gallon on the same syrups when they are to be used in bottled goods.

If a small confectioner mixes his own fountain syrups he must keep account and pay his Uncle Samuel 6 cents a gallon.

Most soda fountains are absorbing this expense, since it represents only a very small part in a 5-cent or 10-cent drink. Some bottlers have raised their price to the retailer 5 or 10 cents on a case of 24 bottles.

Matches are taxed at 2 cents per 1000 for the ordinary kind and one-half of 1 cent per 1000 for the paper kind. Thus, the tax on a penny box which contains 50 matches, is one tenth of a cent and on paper packs, which usually contain 20 matches, a tiny fraction of a cent. Moreover most paper matches are given away free by advertisers.

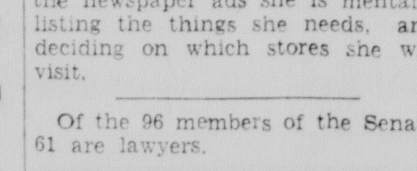

R. S. HAY, PUBLISHER OF THE HOOPERSTON (ILL.) CHRONICLE-HERALD, SAYS:

"That most of the shopping for the average family is done in the living room at home. Jane leaves from the NEWSPAPER that she can buy her favorite face powder for less. Young Bill sees a picture of the perfect bathing suit and starts to talk Dad out of the price Dad makes a mental note to buy new tires."

Mother, Purchasing Agent for the family, goes over the ads with a fine tooth comb. Tomorrow she will go down town to buy: tooth paste and muslin, mesh undies and laundry soap, bath towels and waxed paper, bacon and screen wire, breakfast food and pork roast. Parker House rolls, bread and angel cake, sox for Junior, Castoria and cottage cheese, strawberries, mayonnaise and a half dozen lemons.

Mother is making her tentative shopping decisions tonight. From the newspaper ads she is mentally listing the things she needs, and deciding on which stores she will visit.

W. C. T. U. LEADER SCORNS WOMEN WETS AS "SOCIAL CLIMBERS"

White Ribboners Find Dry Law Success as W. Coast Convention Nears

By NEA Service

Seattle, Wash.—The women who have worn the white ribbon of the W. C. T. U. since the days when Carrie Nation wrecked saloons with her trusty hatchet aren't worried, even in this presidential election year of 1932 when the Democratic party stands committed to repeal and the Republican party favors resubmission.

Convinced that prohibition has proved its worth, that the law will withstand all attacks, delegates representing a half million women members throughout the nation plan no change in their strategy when they meet in Seattle Aug. 12 to 19 for the 58th annual convention of their organization.

Presiding will be Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn, N. Y., 74-year-old president of the organization, who has devoted upwards of 40 years to fight against liquor.

"Opposition?" says Mrs. Boole. "Prohibition has always had opposition. True, our opposition is better organized today and it has plenty of money with which to employ highly paid publicity workers. Because their program is opposed to the law, every step they take is news."

"On the other hand, the dries are going quietly about their business of supporting the law and upholding the Constitution. There isn't as much news value in this sort of a program, but it is just as effective."

Therefore, Mrs. Boole thinks her own organization has little cause to worry.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union, says its veteran president, does not recognize its rival, the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform. As an organization, this group of anti-prohibition women simply does not matter, she says.

"The Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform," she continues, is made up, for the most part, of women who would like to get into society—and they think this is their chance.

"There is not an organization; it is simply an enrollment. All it does is get people to sign their names, and it is easy to persuade people to sign almost any document as long as nothing but a signature is required. The executive committee of this group can't even speak for its constituency. That was proved when it tried to commit the group to the support of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"We look upon the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform merely as a part of the organization against prohibition. It simply exists, that's all."

Contrasted with this group, says Mrs. Boole, is the W. C. T. U. whose members are checked through the payment of dues. She has no reason to believe, she says, that there is any checking up on enrollment of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, either for losses by death or through changes of opinion.

Mrs. Ella Boole of Brooklyn, N. Y., fifth president of the W. C. T. U. who will preside when the organization's 58th annual convention is held in Seattle, Wash.

In discussing increased opposition to prohibition, Mrs. Boole finds that today's prospect holds no special reason for alarm, although she does believe that it will require activity on the part of the dries to hold their ground. But she has no worries about their ability to do this.

Mrs. Boole believes decidedly that the emphasis placed on the evils of prohibition by its opponents is unfair. These evils, she asserts, are the result of violation of the law, not the result of the law itself. And every violation of the law, she adds, is magnified. According to her view, there is far less liquor being consumed today than before the advent of the law.

White-haired and motherly, with a demeanor one would expect of a person much younger than her 74 years, the fifth president in the history of the 60-year-old Women's Christian Temperance Union is a veteran of an interesting and colorful career.

Born and educated at Van Wert,

O. she won local fame as a girl orator in high school and later became a school teacher. At a chalet in Rome City, Ind., she met the Rev. William H. Boole, a Methodist minister and early prohibition crusader whose home was in Brooklyn. They were married in 1883, to be parted by his death 13 years later.

Mrs. Boole, using her talents as an orator, naturally followed her husband into prohibition work and after his death she became even more prominent. In those early days of the movement she was active as a crusader in New York's saloon-infested Bowery. In 1897 she became president of the New York state W. C. T. U. and in 1925 she succeeded Miss Anna Adams Gordon as president of the national organization.

A woman of many abilities, she ran for the United States Senate in 1920 as a prohibition candidate opposed to Senator James Wadsworth, Republican, and polled 150,000 votes. Wadsworth, a wet, was victorious but when he came up for re-election in 1926 Mrs. Boole and her prohibition forces were instrumental in bringing about his defeat.

At 74 today she is as active as many women of 50. A few years ago she fell while entering a New York subway and broke her arm.

Refusing offers of first aid or ambulance attention, she rode the subway to her home and phoned her own doctor to come and attend to her injury.

PIRATES' LAST ROAD TRIP WAS PITIFUL JAUNT

Yankees, However, Fared Very Well On Trip To Middle West

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Editor

The early August road tours in the major leagues have ended with high honors for the New York Yankees, leaders of the American League, and few, if any, for the Pittsburgh Pirates at the head of the National.

The Yanks came through their trip to the middle west with only a half game missing from the margin they started with after winning ten out of 15 games. The Bucs, on the other hand, finished with a record of seven victories and 12 defeats. Today they faced the Chicago Cubs in a "crucial" game with a margin of only three percentage points.

While Chicago was kept idle by rain yesterday, Pittsburgh broke its ten game losing streak with a 5 to 2 victory over the Boston Braves in the first half of a double header and thus kept their hold on first place. They followed it by losing a "heart breaker," 3 to 2, when home runs by Berger and Schumacher gave the Braves the decision.

Dodgers Won Two

Brooklyn took two games from the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 1, and 10 to 9 in 13 innings, to make it 14 victories in 18 starts and to finish their climb from seventh place to fourth.

The St. Louis Cardinals completed the downfall of the Phillies with an eleventh inning onslaught that brought six runs and an 11 to 5 victory, their fourth straight over the Phils.

Philadelphia's Athletics captured second place in the American League by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 3, while rain held Washington and Cleveland idle, dropping the Indians to third.

The Yankees, meanwhile, maintained a nine game margin over the A's by slamming out 17 hits, many of them wasted, and taking a 7 to 6 decision from the St. Louis Browns.

Young Tommy Bridges, who pitched a one-hit game his last time out, stopped the Boston Red Sox with three hits and buried Detroit to a 6 to 2 victory.

AMERICAN IN SURPRISE WIN IN SWIM EVENT

Clarence Crabbe Aids In Keeping The U. S. Team In Lead

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles, Aug. 11—(AP)—Clarence (Buster) Crabbe of America momentarily halted Japan's swimming invasion by defeating Jean Tardis, France, by six inches in the 400-meter free style final yesterday.

His victory was a surprise, Japan, on the basis of its showing in preliminary heats, had been favored to win with three men in the finals. Instead, Crabbe and Tardis staged such a brisk race the Nipponese had to be content with third, fourth and fifth.

Crabbe, who got most of his aquatic education on the Hawaiian Islands, set a new Olympic record of 4 minutes, 48.4 seconds and bettered Arne Borg's record in his triumph, but while he was splashing to a win, the International Swimming Federation was accepting various and sundry world records including Tardis' time of 4:47 for the distance, taking this honor from the victor.

Four Other Contests
Four other events of the Olympics which are yet to be contested, were affected by the lowering of new world standards, as if to discourage the international field which has eclipsed three world records, and all but one of the Olympic marks put to the test.

These were the 1500-meter free style, with Borg's record of 19 minutes, 7.2 seconds; 200-meter breast stroke set by Walter Spence, Canada, at 2:44.6; the 400-meter free style for women at 5:31, which is one of Helene Madison's sixteen marks, and the 100-meter backstroke for women established by Bonnie Mealing, Australia.

Crabbe's win saved for the United States the men's team lead with the total standing at 42 against 37 for Japan. The women's team lead was increased to 39 against 12 for Australia, when Uncle Sam's three feminine Olympic board diving experts swept the first three places.

LANDIS PROBES CHARGES CUBS PLAY PONIES

Goes to Pittsburgh to Start Investigation of Rumors

Chicago, Aug. 11—(AP)—A special dispatch to the Chicago Daily News from Pittsburgh today said that Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis had opened a sweeping investigation of charges that several members of the Chicago Cubs, including Pitcher Guy Bush, had been gambling on the horses during the managerial regime of Rogers Hornsby.

Commissioner Landis, the dispatch said, went to Pittsburgh today to open the inquiry as the Cubs arrived for their first place battle with the Pirates. He refused to discuss the investigation the dispatch added, but told reporters to "draw your own conclusions."

Is Bad For Game
The News quoted Commissioner Landis as saying yesterday before he departed for Pittsburgh that "Gambling isn't like drunkenness. If it's a drunkard you have to deal with you can give him a shower and an aspirin tablet and send him out on the field and he will play ball for you or at least try. But when you have a player out there on the field, wondering, during a crucial moment of the ball game whether Raggedy Pants or some other nag is going to run first or second, the situation becomes acute."

"It is a thing that I and the executives of every ball club in both circuits want to stamp out and we'll stamp it out even if it means the wrecking of valuable ball clubs. The respective owners would rather see their ball clubs blown to atoms than have such a thing creep into their teams. One scandal such as we had in 1919 is enough."

Milledgeville Won From Nelson Team
The Nelson Cardinals were defeated Sunday by a score of 11 to 5 on the Milledgeville diamond. Milledgeville got off with a lead in the first inning which they managed to maintain. The Cards made their five runs in the eighth and ninth innings. There were three base hits by Charles of Milledgeville and two base hits by Yochel of the Cardinals. Wallace Reed and Bellows of the Cardinals. The lineups were as follows:

Cardinals—Thompson, 2b; Bush, ss; Ortgieisen, p; Clissen, cf; Bartholomew, 1b; Bellows, c; Wallace, 3b; Reed, lf; Rogers, rf; McClintock, p.

Giants—D. Yochel, 3b-c; C. Yochel, lf; Rife, rf; Geison, cf; H. Yochel, c; Allison, 2b; Mills, ss; Charles, 1b; Miller, p.

Next Sunday the Cardinals are scheduled to play the Price Indians on the Nelson diamond.

SPEEDING THINGS UP
New York—Speeding up of air line schedule between New York and Los Angeles has been announced by the United Air Lines, and it's now possible to make the trip in 28 hours, just a bit more than one day. You can eat breakfast in New York, lunch in Cleveland, Detroit or Chicago, and lunch on the Pacific coast the next day.

Girl Pitcher Will Work For Shoe Co. Team

Dixon baseball fans will be given a treat next Sunday when the William B. Johnson Shoe Company baseball team meets the Uptown Boosters of Moline at the Independent field on Van Buren avenue and Eighth street. The game will be called promptly at 2:30.

Miss Gertrude Brown will step out on the mound for the shoemakers when the team takes the field against their strong opposition. Miss Brown is on tour and Manager Raymond Henley yesterday afternoon signed a contract for her appearance before the Dixon Fans Sunday afternoon. Miss Brown comes to Dixon with a reputation of being the best of all women baseball pitchers.

Last Sunday before 2,000 fans at Elgin, she pitched six innings against Pat Flannigan's Prima Specials and yielded but two hits. "Hi" Emmert will be on duty back of the plate to accept her offerings. Gil Berry, captain of the University of Illinois football team, will also be on hand and pitch a part of the game, probably the last three innings. Manager Henley has succeeded in booking this special attraction for the baseball fans of Dixon and vicinity and if hopeful of having a large attendance present at the Independent field when the game is called Sunday afternoon.

GOLF CHAMPION CHOOSES TO BE "ONE OF BOYS"

And Choice May Keep Him From Making "Grand Slam"

New York, Aug. 11—(AP)—Because he chose to be "one of the boys," Gene Sarazen's chances of scoring a grand slam in golf are very slim.

After winning the British and United States open titles, Sarazen was offered the opportunity of competing in the professional Golf Association's tournament at St. Paul August 30 to September 3, without playing in the qualifying rounds. He refused saying he desired taking his chance with the other boys.

Yesterday 14 metropolitan pros qualified and Sarazen was not one of the group. He finished in a seven-way tie for the last three places but lost out on the extra hole when a par four was not good enough to beat a trio of birdie 3's.

Sarazen, Leo Diegel, former P. G. A. champion, and two others played two more holes with the hopes that one of the qualifiers will withdraw, leaving another position open. Sarazen won. There is a chance that Charles Lacey, assistant pro to Sarazen at Lakeville, will withdraw, leaving the place open for him.

Brief Summary of Last Night's News

(By The Associated Press)
Washington—Crop estimates show falling off from July forecast.
Tampico—Robert Buck, youthful flier, reaches Tampico on Newark-to-Mexico City flight.

ILLINOIS
Chicago—A campaign for support of the 20,000,000 unemployment relief bill issue passed by the General Assembly will be conducted by 15 statewide organizations opposed to higher real estate taxes.

Woodstock—When Wilson Reinholdt, 30, of Chicago dove into shallow water of the Fox river he suffered a broken neck. He was completely paralyzed.

Tishomingo, Okla.—Mrs. E. S. Schrader and her first husband, Mert Lane of Springfield, Ill., were bound over to the District Court on murder charges for the fatal shooting of Schrader, July 27.

ADJUSTABLE PROPELLER
Philadelphia—A Philadelphia motor expert, Alexander Altieri, has perfected an adjustable-pitch propeller which, he believes, will result in a tremendous advance in aviation. By regulating the pitch of the propeller a pilot can increase the speed of his plane and at the same time cut down on his fuel and oil consumption, it is said.

GET RID OF INDIGESTION IN A FEW MINUTES, OR

Get Your Money Back

"Bilear" and milk of magnesia only make your indigestion worse in most cases, for they weaken the digestive and in your stomach, as it cannot digest your food properly. Pepto-Bismol does not upset your stomach. It relieves indigestion in a few minutes by stopping the souring of food in your stomach and the decay of food in your bowels. The medicine in Pepto-Bismol which stops souring and decay, are four of the finest medicines known to physicians. Read them on the bottle. Pepto-Bismol is not a patent medicine. It is a prescription by The Norwich Pharmaceutical Company, whose Unquestioned and other fine medicines have held the respect of physicians, surgeons, hospitals, nurses and druggists for nearly 50 years.

If Pepto-Bismol does not get rid of your indigestion, distress after eating, heartburn and sour and stomach, in a few minutes, get your money back from your druggist. Delicious Pepto-Bismol is harmless. Price 50c. But don't be absent-minded and forget to ask your druggist for "something for indigestion". Ask him for Pepto-Bismol by name. Look for the name Pepto-Bismol on the bottle. Refuse the unfair offer of "something just as good" which may hinder, instead of help your digestion. Ask for Pepto-Bismol by name and get what you ask for.

Man O'War's Son Sold For $5,000

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 11—(AP)—Fourteen years ago Man O' War, then a yearling unnamed, was sold at the Saratoga auction sales for $5,000. Last night a grand son of the famous super horse went under the hammer for the same price, the highest individual price for this season's yearling sales.

The son of American Flag, a big boned and well-mannered youngster, went to Mrs. I. D. Sloane, owner of the Brookmeade stable. Altogether 40 head changed hands, bringing $20,360, an average of $509.

COMPTON NEWS

By LESLIE G. ARCHER

Compton — Miss Marjorie Newenham returned to Compton, after completing a three weeks session as counsellor of the Camp Fire Girls, at Touchabatchee Camp, near Ottawa. Miss Newenham's duty was teaching nature study. She will begin her first year of teaching in the rural Bauer district school, south of town in September.

Arthur Bettner, was somewhat surprised Monday evening, when he came to visit his girl friend, Miss Vera Mireley, that he was the honored guest of a birthday party. Thirty-two friends greeted him on his arrival at the Mireley home, about eight-thirty Monday evening, and helped make his twenty-first birthday one event long to be remembered, by the lovely presents bestowed upon him. Bunco was enjoyed on the lawn, followed by a delicious luncheon, enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anglemier and son of Chicago, spent the week end here with his sister, Mrs. Zella Swope and husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bartsch and son Arlo of Forrest Park are spending their summer vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Gilmore.

Mrs. L. W. Kutter has been confined to her home for the past week due to illness.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Thompson will arrive here from Columbia, Missouri, early this week, after spending their vacation attending summer school at the University of Missouri. They will be here a short time, and will leave on a tour before school begins.

The Compton Woman's Club is making final arrangements for their flower show to be held at the high school Friday August 19th, from 1 to 11 P. M. this being earlier than the date previously announced.

The show is not limited to the members of the club. All who are interested in flowers are invited and urged to attend. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded for first and second places.

Refreshment and candy booths will be provided and a musical entertainment will be featured in the evening. There will be no charge of admission.

Rules for Exhibitors—All entries must be in by 9 A. M. Friday, August 19th, and can be made on Thursday afternoon and evening, if the contestant so desires. The entries may be removed after 10 P. M. Friday.

Exhibitors are entitled to as many entries as desired and must furnish containers and be responsible for the same.

The Lee County Woman's club will hold a picnic on Tuesday, August 23rd, at Franklin Grove, at the camp ground. Dinner at 12:00. Program in the afternoon.

The Scarboro Colts, after leading the Community Baseball League in games won and lost nearly all season, was submerged Sunday by Lee. Lee won from Paw Paw by a score of 6 to 2, while the Colts lost their game to Creston, 4 to 0.

The Compton Oilers in Sunday's game with Rochelle, was able to hold their own up to the eighth inning, when the score stood 3 to 3. Late in the eighth inning a batting rally brought in nine runs for Rochelle. A Chaoon was relieved in the seventh by Wayne Archer, who stayed on the mound until the last inning, when W. Chaoon finished out the game for the Oilers.

Next Sunday will be the last home game to be played by the Oilers. Lee, will be the host of the Oilers.

This game completes the regular schedule, but two postponed games will be played off to balance the regulation goal of fourteen games.

Juanita Chapter of the Eastern Star at a special meeting held on Saturday evening, preceded by a 6:30 dinner, received an official visit of Mrs. Emma S. Hanson of Chicago, Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Lodge of Illinois.

One hundred and some members attended the meeting. Mrs. Anna Wolford, Grand Adah, Mrs. Gertrude E. New York Jobless Build "Model" Shanty-town

This community of 60 shacks, built on the East river in the heart of New York City, is a lot more exclusive than it looks. It is inhabited by jobless men who have their own mayor, community commissary, street cleaning squad and vigilante committee. No Communists are allowed in the settlement, over which an American flag is hoisted each day. Driftwood serves as fuel and building material; the river is their bath house; and odd jobs and donations of food allow the men to eke out a living.

Their Air Road Leads to Rome

Pilot, copilot and "attending physician" on a proposed freak trans-Atlantic flight to Rome are shown here at Roosevelt Field, N. Y. Dr. Leon Piquah, left, intends to study the fatigue reactions of William Ullrich, left, and Miss Edna Newcomer as they guide their plane over the sea. If they succeed in reaching Rome, Miss Newcomer then intends to make a parachute jump before Ullrich brings the craft to a landing.

Forgotten Heroes

By Elmo Scott Watson

"It's What We're Here For!"

"OFFICER and gentleman"—such is the tradition in the American army and none better exemplified it than Guy V. Henry, who has also, and justly, been called "the typical knightly American soldier." A West Pointer, and the son of another, he was born into the service in which he was to have such a distinguished career. He saw four years of the hardest fighting in the Civil war, was thrice mentioned in dispatches and brevetted five times for gallantry.

He was a brilliant Indian fighter from 1865 to 1890 and during the Spanish-American war he accomplished wonders as military ruler of Porto Rico, and there he died because he would not ask to be relieved of his command although he knew that by staying he was doomed. "Here I was sent and here I will stay until my duty is done," he said.

"This as a shoestring and brave as a lion," the soldiers who served under him and almost worshipped him, said. What he lacked in physique, he more than made up for in will power. During the winter of 1874 he was ordered from Fort Robinson with a troop of soldiers to expel miners from the Black Hills. The march, which is a classic in old army traditions, took them over 800 miles of the roughest country in America, and was made in weather ranging from 20 to 40 degrees below zero. Only the indomitable perseverance of the commander kept the men from lying down and being frozen to death. His plight was the worst of all. They had to cut the bridle reins from his frozen hands when he returned to the fort, and slit his gloves into strips. Each strip brought with it a piece of flesh, and to the day of his death he could not close the fingers on his left hand.

In the Battle of the Rosebud during the Sioux War of 1876 Henry was shot through the face and fell to the ground. A desperate hand-to-hand conflict raged over his body but he was rescued and carried to the rear. "Fix me up so that I can go back" were the words mumbled through bleeding lips to the surgeon, but there was no going back for him. There he lay through the long hot day while the battle raged, almost unattended, for not a man could be spared from the firing line. To a fellow officer who once came and bent over him commiseratingly, Henry murmured, "It's all right, Jack, it's what we're here for." And a few minutes later to a war correspondent who came to see him, Henry recommended that he join the army!

HURRY-UP MEALS

Haven't you often found yourself in need of preparing hurry-up combinations for supper, afternoon tea or picnic? You probably wished you could think of something that could be prepared in a hurry but gave the appearance of being a carefully worked out affair. Try the following suggestions:

QUICK SUPPER

Tuna Fish Salad
Buttered Asparagus
Hot Tea Biscuits
The principal supplies for the above dishes can be on your emergency shelf—the can of Tuna Fish and a can of All Green or Natural Asparagus and a box of Airy Fairy Kwik Bis-Kit Flour.

With Kwik Bis-Kit Flour, which needs only water added to stir up biscuits that will bake in a jiffy, the supper takes on the appearance of something which has been well planned ahead of time!

"I wonder if he stopped writing to me just because the postage rate went up."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

The root system of the squash vine develops a surprising amount of mileage in its daily search for food. The actual space covered by the 15 miles of roots amounts to but a square foot, however, for most of the immense mileage is made up of delicate root hairs, almost microscopic in size, which are to be found sticking out of the larger roots. By the process known as "osmosis" these root hairs absorb the food compounds so necessary to the growing plant.

RIN TIN TIN, FAMOUS FILM DOG STAR, DEAD

Once Saved Warners From Bankruptcy: Was 14 Yrs. Old

Hollywood, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The famous German police dog actor, Rin Tin Tin, credited with saving Warner Brothers from possible bankruptcy before that movie concern gave the world talking pictures, is dead after more than 13 years in the films.

Popular the world over among movie goers, the clever animal star, which earned a fortune in his career, died Tuesday morning at the home of the owner and trainer, Lee Duncan in nearby Westwood.

Death apparently resulted from infirmities of age. Rin Tin Tin was 14 years old, aged for a dog. Mascot Pictures announced Rin Tin Tin, Jr., will immediately step into his father's tracks, starting in a few days on a picture which was to have starred the elder dog.

No estimate was available on the life-time earnings of the remarkable canine thespian but the total is believed to have been over $400,000.

The body was buried privately at the rear of the Duncan home.

Ralph Rader At Assembly Tonight

Special service tonight at the Paul Rader Tabernacle conducted by Ralph Rader, secretary of all extension work of the Paul Rader tabernacles.

Mr. Rader will arrive in Dixon this afternoon and promptly at 7:45 will open the song services ably assisted by Miss Dorothy Kunzman, and her assistant, the trombone.

He will speak on a subject dealing with "Appropriation" appropriating the redemptive sacrifice of Christ on the cross to ourselves.

Come and hear Mr. Rader outline the Rader activities and the plan of salvation.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

FROM CAMP DEPRESSION
Wednesday in camp was somewhat slow as the first period of camp closed and only a few Scouts were in camp. Scouts of Dixon troops are expected to arrive today. Any Scout residing in Lee county is eligible to enroll in the camp. Swimming and various forms of handicraft makes up the program.

Arthur Tuttle's Camp Riverview proved a great success in Amboy. This was a ten day camp and was attended by 24 Scouts. Scoutmaster Tuttle was director of the camp. Ken Abbott of Dixon, assistant and Bob Reinhold of Amboy, water front director. During the camping period a total of 68 tests were passed and seven merit badges awarded.

At the Tuesday evening Court of Honor, George Driesbach, Rev. A. B. Whitcomb, Mr. Connors of the Blackhawk area commission and the Whiteside area commission were present. Two Scouts received their First Class Badges and seven received Second Class awards.

CHINA NATION ADRIFT TODAY; NO AUTHORITY

Government At A Standstill: Crisis Is Believed Grave

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer
(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press)

Shanghai, Aug. 11.—(AP)—China was a nation almost adrift today. Chiang Kai-Shek, former President and virtual Commander-in-Chief of the Army, appeared to be drifting toward the role of Fascist Dictator, favoring a tolerant foreign policy, especially with respect to Manchuria.

China's government was at a standstill. In political circles it was indicated that leaders were urgently attempting to solve the crisis resulting from the resignation of Wang Ching-Wei, President of the Executive Yuan, and the Nanjing Cabinet.

Without warning, Wang Ching-Wei quit last Saturday. He gave as his reason the maladministration of affairs in North China, coupling with it a withering attack upon Chang Hsiao-Liang, erstwhile Manchurian chieftain now directing affairs about Peiping, supposedly under Nanking's direction.

Chiang Kai-Shek instead of assuming the dictatorial role and commanding his one-time subordinates to remain in their respective posts, telegraphed to Nanking that he, too, would be forced to resign unless various leaders resumed their duties.

Chiang Kai-Shek's action precipitated the greatest crisis in the history of the stormy Nanking regime. Today China's government is at a standstill. Wang Ching-Wei and other members of the Nanking cabinet are in retirement here.

Chan Hsiao-Liang from Peiping has sent repeated appeals to Nanking that his successor be named, but there is no one at Nanking to consider his appeals. A slight ray of hope appeared yesterday when Wang Ching-Wei, although declining to go to Hankow to discuss the situation with Chiang Kai-Shek, sent representatives.

Stripped to the essentials, the situation is a contest between Chiang Kai-Shek and Wang Ching-Wei, whose views are strongly divergent.

Other alleged members of the gang are under arrest at Springfield awaiting trial on a charge of murder. They are Russell James, Sherman Clemons and William Garrison, all of Indianapolis. Neither Rohr nor Lukar was present. Officers said they believed when the Ohio officer was killed and his partner wounded.

Scenes of Robberies.
Cities in which the two men admitted staging robberies, police asserted included Richmond, Kokomo, South Bend, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Ind.; LaSalle, Mattoon and Bloomington, Ill.; and Piqua, Marion, Delphos, Canton, Dayton and Springfield, Ohio.

The gun used in the slaying of the Springfield officer, Rohr and Lukar were quoted as saying, was obtained when the gang disarmed an officer during the LaSalle robbery in 1931.

Patrolman McCracken, formerly a professional baseball player, was shot while attempting to guard two theater employees robbed of $747 by the gang.

for LOVE or MONEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent. She met Barry through STEVE SACCA-RETT, her childhood sweetheart, who has returned to New York after three years' absence. Steve has been in South America where, largely by chance, he has become associated with Barry, owner of a diamond mine long believed worthless. Together they have made the mine pay and are now business partners. Steve owns a huge diamond cutter "The Empress of Peru." LOTTIE CARR, fashion model, joins Mona, Barry and Steve on several dinner and dancing engagements.

Some time later Barry invites Mona, Lottie and Steve to spend Sunday at his uncle's palatial country home. It is a delightful day but Barry fails to propose to Mona as she had hoped he might. He asks her to dine with him next week but when the day arrives she fails to hear from him. Barry is ill with influenza.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

IT was, of course, out of the question for Mona to go to see Barry. Neither could she telephone. She vaguely suspected that with Barry's uncle back from White Sulphur, even Steve kept away from the Townsend country home.

"I've been in this office for three years nearly," she mused, "yet I've never seen the firm's most remunerative client!"

Nor had she. Mr. Townsend was one of the favored few who used the private elevator leading directly to Mr. Garretson's own office.

Mona glanced at her wrist watch and saw that it was well past her usual lunch time. Well, now that she had delayed this long she would wait and lunch at the Savarin.

It was expensive but occasionally she went there, ordering the least costly dish on the menu. Mona felt sick at heart. The influenza might keep Barry at home until his sailing date and by that time perhaps he would forget her!

A moment later Mollie Drury passed Mona's desk, dropping a folded newspaper. "Get a load of that!" Mona said mysteriously.

The society page was folded outward to display a rather pretty, yet vacuous face. It was the face of a girl named Genevieve Dower.

"Miss Genevieve Dower," the caption ran, "daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Aldrich Dower of East 72nd street and Southampton, L. I., will be presented at a dinner dance tonight at Pierre's."

Mona noticed that the stranger was slim with a slightly military erectness and that he was regarding her as he flicked ashes from his cigar into a tray.

Mona raised uncomprehending eyes and Mollie shrugged. "Engaged, so they say, to Barry Townsend! Remember seeing him around here?"

Mona remembered—as Mollie had expected. "Engaged?" she repeated. "The paper doesn't say that, does it?"

"The paper doesn't—but Dr. Dower and Barry Townsend's uncle are great pals. They were down at White Sulphur with Mr. Garretson."

Mona looked again at the portrait. The face was unfamiliar but the name—ah, she recognized it! Barry had been called to the telephone last Sunday when Jimmie reported, "Miss Dower is calling."

"It is announced?" she asked dully.

Mollie raised her hands, indicating disinterest. "Not yet, I guess. The girl probably wants a fling in society before she marries."

Who could want a fling, Mona thought desperately, with Barry waiting? She said nothing however and Mollie, only half satisfied with the effect of her news, descended to eat her lunch.

Mona was about to relinquish her post when the telephone rang. It was Steve once more.

"Want to run out to Twilands with me tonight?" he asked. Steve had just talked to Mrs. Faxon who said Barry was feeling better.

"I can't tonight, Steve. I'm going to see Father."

Declining Steve's suggestion that she should drive to Twilands after visiting the hospital, Mona put down the instrument and set off for lunch.

THE Savarin was emptying and she found a secluded seat near a corner. Without consulting the menu Mona ordered briefly—a pot of tea with lemon, eggs Benedictine and toast.

The cool green of the room, the music, faraway but insistent, the spotless linen gave her the sense of luxury her mood required. Presently the waiter brought her order, lifted the silver cover of the dish proudly and poured the tea.

Mona drank the beverage slowly. Holding the cup to her lips she noted that she was not, as she had thought, alone in this section of the room. Directly across sat Mr. Garretson chatting with another man.

Mona noticed that the stranger was slim with a slightly military erectness and that he was regarding her as he flicked ashes from his cigar into a tray.

For an instant his eyes met Mona's. Swiftly the girl looked away and again considered her tea cup.

As she rose to leave she glanced toward Mr. Garretson who bowed.

"He'll think I'm extravagant," Mona thought with alarm. Hurrying away, she had the uncomfortable feeling that the two men were discussing her. She didn't want Mr. Garretson to think she wasted money—today of all days!

For Mona had decided to ask for an advance with which to finance her father's treatment. She would, of course, approach Mr. Garretson about it. It had been Mr. Garretson who had hired her, arranged her work, and given her frequent raises in salary.

At five o'clock Mona took the subway and rode to the hospital, reflecting as she struggled through the crowds that this was the first evening in a long while that she had not made the trip in Steve's car.

At a corner shop she bought tobacco and oranges and selected some cartoon booklets for her father who was an enthusiastic admirer of Mickey Mouse.

FOLLOWING the stiffly starched nurse into the doctor's office Mona's heart grew lighter. With Dad well once more she would be so much happier. But was no longer a worry. Kitty was doing well at school. Ma had felt better lately too. There was only the problem of raising the money for her father's treatment.

Steve might loan her the amount, Mona reflected. But no—she couldn't ask him for it. She had taken such pains to make clear to Steve just what she could accept from him and what she could not.

She remembered that once when one of the girls had been in urgent need of money Lottie had conducted a sale and many of her friends had generously thrown in various treasures. Lottie as auctioneer, glib of tongue and generous herself, had rapidly raised the required sum.

Mona, however, had nothing to sell. The emerald cost nothing but $500 but it had been returned to Lottie the day after its arrival. She had declined the diamond necklace. No—there was no way except to ask her employer for an advance.

Dr. Dean, a slender, blond young man of earnest mien, looked up as she entered his office. The doctor's air was preoccupied and important. He had just come from a conference.

"I brought my father a few little things," Mona told Miss Folsom smiling, "and nothing is more important to him just now than sleep. However," she eyed the packages hesitantly, "I'll leave these on the table near his bed so he will see them the moment he awakens."

"And tell him I'll be back to see him in a few days, won't you?" Mona said. "Give him my love."

Miss Folsom agreed and returned to her vigil. Why in the name of heaven, she wondered, did a girl as pretty as that one continue to remain "Miss Moran?"

TWO MEN UNDER ARREST ADMIT PART IN MURDER

Officers Of Indianapolis Seek Third Member Of Bandit Gang

Indianapolis, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Arrest and confession of two men, police believed today, left at liberty only one member of a bandit gang whose depredations included the slaying of two policemen and a score of robberies, netting thousands of dollars, in three states.

Donald Rohr, 27, and Edgar Lukar 24, both of Indianapolis, were quoted by police as admitting they were members of a gang responsible for the slaying of Patrolman Ovid McCracken at Muncie Ind., last April 25, and the killing of Policeman Charles Holt at Springfield, Ohio, several weeks ago. They were taken to Muncie last night.

Other alleged members of the gang are under arrest at Springfield awaiting trial on a charge of murder. They are Russell James, Sherman Clemons and William Garrison, all of Indianapolis. Neither Rohr nor Lukar was present. Officers said they believed when the Ohio officer was killed and his partner wounded.

GIDEON BUS TICKETS

LONDON—Where formerly the advertising messages on the backs of local omnibus tickets were such as to induce thirly thoughts of a frothy cup of ale, they will, from now on, direct the minds of omnibus riders more toward the spiritual side of life. Indignant at the omnibus company's policy of allowing drink advertisements to appear on the back of tram tickets a religious society has booked the space hereafter for the insertion of religious texts.

PROMPTNESS REWARDED

LONDON—If you are one of those people who are tardy about everything you do, observe what punctuality did for one Englishwoman. Because she always had his breakfast ready at the time he asked, with never any delay, Edith Taylor was awarded $50 a year for each year or fraction thereof spent in his services, by her employer, John James of Stratford-on-Avon.

"ANNE, please say you'll marry me. Give me the right to take you away from all this—"

Peter's blue eyes swept the bright, noisy room disdainfully. The swaying huddle of humanity on the dance floor. A night club transported to a secluded retreat outside a big city. The latest venture of Vance Graydon, their suave, sleek-haired host.

"You're sweet, Peter. And I'd say yes in a minute if it wasn't for the last half of your proposal. But I couldn't live without this. Without crowds of people and music and excitement."

"But this isn't real, Anne. It's only a substitute. A sham. And I'm fed up with living on the surface of things. Anne, please give me a chance. I can teach you to like the things that I like—"

"I do like them, Peter. But that doesn't mean that we have to bury ourselves somewhere. To give up our friends."

"Friends? I suppose that means Vance. He's the god of gaiety at whose altar you worship—"

Anne shrugged slim bare shoulders. "And the answer to that one is?"

"That you'd probably prefer to be hostess of a penthouse apartment and a night club instead of a home."

"I hope that's true," a voice cut in unexpectedly.

Engrossed with each other, Peter and Anne had not seen Vance Graydon approaching. Now he stood beside their table, flashing black eyes intent on Anne's dark beauty.

"Vance, what do you mean sneaking up on us like this?" laughingly demanded Anne.

"Well, there's always the chance of hearing something interesting, for instance."

"Having a good time?"

"Of course. It's a lovely party. But for the last hour it's been dying on its feet." Anne looked over at Peter. That wasn't a nice thing to say, of course, but then Peter really had gone a little too far.

Vance intercepting that glance leaned over Anne. "Never mind. I'm going to see the musicians about some extra features, then I'll be back for my dance with you."

"I'll be counting the minutes."

Peter sat silent. Anne, suddenly repentant, leaned toward him. "I'm sorry, Peter. I didn't mean what I said to Vance. Not really."

"Oh, that's all right. I suppose I'm rather a wet blanket."

Suddenly he beckoned to a waiter to fill his glass.

"Why, Peter! Drinking?" Anne's eyes widened. "I thought you never touched liquor."

"Never is a long time, Anne. And I might just as well begin. Because if you won't play the game my way I'm going to play it your way." He drained his glass, slowly, deliberately. "Dance with me, Anne?"

After their dance the floor was cleared.

When the last note died away Peter got to his feet. "Hey," he shouted, picking his way carefully through the crowded tables. "This party is dying on its feet. Let's give the little play boys a hand."

He grabbed the leader's baton. Whipped the orchestra into a savage frenzy of sound.

The floor filled with dancers, amused, smiling. Vance came over to Anne.

"Well, this sort of thing does seem a little more than our friend Peter can manage."

"Oh, Vance, hadn't we better do something about him?"

"No, he'll run down after a while. And now let's forget about him, shall we?"

Anne rose with slow grace. Drifted out on the floor in Vance's arms. Two or three turns about and he had guided her into one of the private rooms. Here he held her tightly.

"Anne, I can't live without you any longer."

He kissed her passionately, possessively. And in that moment Peter in his roamings came into the room and stood for a moment swaying, unseen, in the doorway.

"But Vance, I don't understand—"

Anne lifted grave, questioning eyes. "There's something you haven't said."

"Oh, darling, don't go provincial on me. I'm not the marrying kind. But don't you know that the substitute I can give you will be more exciting than the real thing with any other man?"

"Maybe you're right." She stopped, eyes suddenly intent upon a scene in the other room. Peter holding aloft a glittering ring. Around him a bevy of shrieking, laughing girls with outstretched hands. "But there's one thing you've forgotten, Vance. And that is that there's no substitute for—"

In another minute she was out of the room. Something small and glittering suddenly flashed over her head and by a superhuman effort she caught it within inches of another's expectant, grasping hand.

And then Peter was beside her. "But Anne, I thought—"

Never mind, Peter. Just put this ring on my finger and then please—take me home."

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

U. S. FIELD ARMY CREATED

On August 11, 1918, the U. S. War Department announced the organization of the First American Field Army, under the direct leadership of General John J. Pershing, with five army corps included.

Commanders of the five corps were: first, Maj. Gen. Hunter Liggett; second, Maj. Gen. Robert L. Bullard; third, Maj. Gen. William M. Wright; fourth, Maj. Gen. George W. Read; fifth, Maj. Gen. Omar Bundy.

Each army corps numbered more than 200,000 men, and the field army more than 1,000,000 men.

Meanwhile, Allied forces continued to push back the distressed German troops opposing them on the western front. French united advanced more than four miles north of Montdidier.
